

Mürren – Schilthorn: Bernese Oberland’s highest altitude skiing area!

A winter dream with snow-sure guaranteed and a breathtaking panoramic view

Steep slopes for advanced skiers, long downhill runs, a modern transport system, cosy dining and an incomparable panorama with the Eiger, Mönch and Jungfrau: Mürren – Schilthorn, the highest-altitude ski resort with snow guaranteed in the Bernese Oberland, makes every snow sports fan's dream come true.

What a winter dream: early morning on the 2970 meter-high Schilthorn peak, surrounded by a breathtaking mountain landscape with freshly groomed pistes stretching out before you down into the valley. That would make the heart of any winter sports fan beat faster. Your expectations are bound to be fulfilled. Mürren-Schilthorn is the highest-altitude ski resort in the Bernese Oberland (1600-3000 meters above sea-level) and therefore, snow is guaranteed. Additionally, the region has an extensive network of 54 kilometers of optimally groomed pistes and a modern lift system. The trip from Interlaken to the nearest piste takes only 45 minutes with public transport. And since the introduction of the new 2-seater chairlift from Allmiboden to the Allmendhubel, winter sports fans can get from the softly sloping pistes at Maulerhubel and Winteregg quickly and comfortably across again to the other side of the village to the steep slopes of Schiltgrat-Gimmelen – or back down again to the Schilthorn cable car, which waits to go up to Birg and Schilthorn.

In the 'Im Rad' fun park, fearless snowboarders and ski acrobats can get a good work-out: several kickers are available for daredevils to show off their airborne skills, while various rails invite you to try out some tricks.

Winter wonderland for hikers and sledders

Sledders and winter hikers have their fair share in the region, too. Sledge runs promise plenty of fun and thrills – always in view of the Eiger, Mönch and Jungfrau. Long, winter-hiking trails invite you to discover a completely different winter world: groomed trails take you deep into the snowy landscape, through sections of dreamy forest and then out again into the bright winter sunlight. A true winter wonderland.

Sunshine – great food – a good mood

Get the winter day off to a good start with a hearty breakfast in the famous Piz Gloria revolving restaurant on the Schilthorn. The copious James Bond 007 breakfast buffet invites you to a feast with an unparalleled 360-degree panoramic view – and on some Sundays in winter there is also folkloric entertainment. Throughout the entire region, there are attractive rustic restaurants and friendly mountain huts with large outdoor terraces. Skiers, snowboarders, hikers and sledders alike are spoiled for choice with all the various tasty delights. Things get very rustic indeed at the traditional fondue evenings at the Allmendhubel. Guests enjoy a fine cheese fondue accompanied by folkloric entertainment in the panoramic restaurant.

Infobox: Families welcome

There is now limitless ski fun for families on any budget. During the winter season, children under 16 can ski the slopes free every Saturday. With the purchase of an adult daily ticket, two children's daily tickets are included free of charge. All children in a family can ski for free – on presentation of proper identification. But wait, there's more: even equipment for the kids is available at no charge at Intersport Rent shops, such as those in Mürren or Lauterbrunnen.

Infobox: Diabolical downhill

Hair-raising, diabolical and just simply crazy: at the international Inferno Races in Mürren, some 1800 daring skiers take the plunge into the depths for a most spectacular race. The course runs from Schilthorn down into the valley – in good ski conditions, that's almost 16 kilometers to Lauterbrunnen. Started in 1928 by a group of British ski fanatics, the largest amateur ski race in the world has become an absolute hit.

Infobox: Personal winter-season statistics tracking

Find out how far you have skied each day by logging on to your personal winter-season statistics tracker. During the season, those with ski passes (from three days and up) can continuously track elevations and rest stops they have been to, as well as downhill times. Each mode of transport used – whether cable car, chairlift or ski lift – is recorded. Each day of skiing can also be plotted on a panoramic map. So, now you can relive a wonderful winter's day of outdoor fun on the computer screen. At the end of the winter season, registered participants are eligible to enter the draw for some fabulous prizes – including season ski passes.
